

GOVERNOR BLAINE ATTACKS ESCH-CUMMINS RAIL LAW IN LETTER TO IOWA EXECUTIVE

MADISON, Wis.—Governor Blaine on Wednesday attacked the Esch-Cummins railroad law as one of the most vicious pieces of legislation enacted in a letter to Governor N. E. Kendall of Iowa. The letter is the result of a correspondence with Governor Kendall in which the Iowa executive suggested a conference of northwestern governors to consider the freight situation, the unemployment problem and other vital subjects. Governor Blaine Wednesday said that a conference would be absolutely futile so far as the freight situation is concerned.

"We have the Esch-Cummins law in full swing, and governors and states are powerless to change that law until the states change their representatives in congress," said Governor Blaine in his letter to Governor Kendall.

"The state of Wisconsin brought and argued a case in the United States supreme court, in which if we are successful, the right of the states to fix intrastate rates will be preserved. This case was argued last winter, but the court has not yet rendered a decision.

"Therefore, if the conference is called with respect to that question, for the purpose of looking around the wheel of the Esch-Cummins law, I will be exceedingly glad to attend. If we are merely to have a talk fest on the freight rates, the result of which would be absolutely futile, then my time might better be employed.

"Permit me to suggest, however, that Iowa and Wisconsin each elect a United States senator who declared the Esch-Cummins law to be the most progressive piece of legislation ever enacted. Of course their conception might have been that it is a very progressive law, but it progresses backward.

"The employment question is quite another problem. There is a national conference to consider that question. We have had state and local conferences considering the question, and we are making some progress to relieve unemployment in some of the states. The greatest pinch is with the industrial workers. Our industries are crippled to a very large degree by reason of the extreme freight rates on both the raw and the finished product.

"If the conference you suggest could persuade enough of the United States senators who voted for the Esch-Cummins law to resign, we might be able to get a senate that would repeal the vicious Esch-Cummins law. That law distresses the farmers and burdens the consumer.

"You are, therefore, advised that I will join your conference, and I suggest that questions I submit be seriously considered at each conference."

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH US, ANYWAY?

Julius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Southern Pacific Railroad, answers the Tribune and Leader-Press Question Today.

BY JULIUS KRUTTSCHNITT
Chairman Executive Committee,
Southern Pacific Railroad

I believe the present unemployment of several million workers is caused fundamentally by:

ONE: Our system of taxation, which through heavy corporate taxes and surtaxes on individual incomes, discourages initiative and thrift by robbing success of its fruits thereby offering strong inducements to take capital out of industries and to freeze it by investing in tax-exempt securities.

TWO: The slow decline in wage rates and necessarily, therefore, in prices from war-time levels leaves them so high as to stop manufacturing and building.

—Railroad Decline
The effect of high wages in industries has been reflected in our falling exports and in our inability to compete in world markets. As for railroads, where wages are arbitrarily held up by government agencies well above levels prevailing in other industries, construction has been stopped and all improvements except those of the utmost urgency have been deferred.

Seven hundred and seventeen miles of new line were built in 1941—80 years ago; 314 were built in 1920! Inability of the railroads to purchase at the prevailing high costs has been aggravated by the failure of the government to pay them several hundred millions owed for rental duplex federal control, and refusal to fund $763,000,000 paid out for improvements by the government during its control and immediately deducted from the rental owed the carriers.

The Remedies
A mere statement of the causes suggests the remedies.

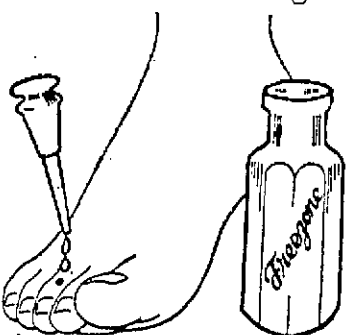

Our system of taxation must be revised substantially as recommended by the secretary of the treasury.

Wages must be adjusted to existing conditions.

Inefficient and slothful working methods and less production, engendered by the fabulous wages paid under stress of national peril, must give way to honest, efficient work and greater zeal, which spell increased production.

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an itching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

DON'T BELIEVE THE CLERK; HE NEEDN'T BACK UP HIS CLAIMS

New York Man Loses Suit Over
Clothes Which Clerk Said
Would "Wear Like Iron"

NEW YORK.—When a clothing clerk tells you that a suit will "wear like iron" he shouldn't be taken too literally because his expression is figurative and does not bind his boss as giving a warranty entitling the purchaser to his money back when, after several months of wear holes make their appearance in the seat of the trousers.

This, in effect, was the decision Tuesday of three learned justices of the supreme court, sitting in the appellate term which passes on the judgments of lower tribunals. The ruling was made in an action brought against a clothing firm.

The plaintiff bought the suit July 28, 1920. He was given the usual assurance that "it looked good in the front," "fitted good in the back" and was "all wool but the buttons."

Failing under the charm of the snare salesman who assured him the suit "would wear like iron" he directed himself of $81.50 and took the suit home. He admitted he liked the style and the fit but six months later when the holes appeared he took it back and demanded his money. The dealer refused to honor his request and he brought suit in the city court and won. The case was appealed and the clothing man, Louis, under the law must pay the costs. He still has the suit.

TENANT OUSTS LANDLORD
CHICAGO, Ill.—A landlord was ousted from his own house Tuesday by one of his tenants and Judge Barasa, in the rent court approved the proceeding.

Alexander Gerri sued John Zuccarello for possession of a flat sub-leased to Zuccarello in a building leased by Gerri.

Zuccarello quietly purchased the building and in court disclosed that he was Gerri's landlord. Gerri whose lease runs until June 1, 1922, refused to withdraw his suit and the new landlord was ordered to vacate.

GENEVA.—Representatives of France and Great Britain were summoned by Lord Robert Cecil, representing South Africa either to present proposals for the reduction of armaments or cease obstructing projects put forward by others.

TWO COATS

HE that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do like wise.—St. Luke 11:11.

Up to Us

THE address with which he outlined the scope of the unemployment conference, President Harding made it very plain that he would have no sympathy with any program of relief which would include the assistance of the federal treasury. He very frankly indicated that government expenditure was to be forbidden ground to the conference, and was not to be considered even as a possibility.

The effect of this limitation is practically to confine the work of the conference to formulation of a program, advice as to its application, and moral leadership of private agencies. Directly, the federal government's only opportunity of relieving unemployment would be through the undertaking of public improvements on a large scale—such work as roads, dams, irrigation and reclamation work, forestry, and the like. But inasmuch as these things could not be started without large appropriations, they are out of the question within the limits laid down by President Harding for the conference.

Leaving aside any discussion of the wisdom of the president's position, dictated as it obviously is by the earnest wish to reduce federal taxation, it appears that the effect of the pronouncement is to throw the burden of actual relief in the unemployment situation upon states and local communities. We shall look to the federal conference to tell us what to do and, perhaps, how to do it. But the doing is plainly to be left to the citizens of each locality, according to the needs of their condition and their own abilities. It emphasizes the need in every community that is faced with unemployment—and what community has not now its uncomfortable share of it?—of the prompt formation of some agency that may act for the community in co-operation with the government program. And just as the federal government's advisory conference includes representatives of all interested groups in the country, so should the local agency which is to be the executive of the policies drafted in Washington, the interpreter of them in terms applicable locally, be representative of every group in the community. City and county government, civic societies, workers and employers should all be represented, and by their best. Men and women who can and will work, and who will forget personal or group aims and prejudices in the interest of the united community's welfare are the only timber that can be useful in the erection of local unemployment councils.

Progress

HUMAN labor throws off another chain. Electric motors and machinery eliminate breaker boys and mules in an anthracite mine owned by the Pennsylvania Coal company. Man is another step nearer the day when machinery will do his work. All of it? Never! Two hundred breaker boys leave the mine. But fifteen have to stay on to run the machinery. That will always be necessary, also human labor to manufacture the machinery and keep it in repair. Human labor—work—is the price of civilization. There will be work, as long as man survives and remains civilized. The one-hour work day may come. But it will take at least centuries, probably thousands of years.

Their Stock in Trade

WE are asked by a farmer living near the city to voice a protest for him against the depredations of motorized vandals who make Sundays a nightmare for farmers by their destruction and pilfering on the farms in this vicinity. In his request the farmer enumerated a list of petty thievery that had been visited upon him and his neighbors which totalled several hundred dollars in actual loss for the season. It included robbed corn-fields, orchards and nut trees, stolen watermelons and muskmelons, etc. And it took no account of the permanent destruction which the haste and carelessness of the motor-vandals caused. Fruit trees broken down, nut trees with limbs broken off, corn trampled down and melon vines uprooted made a grand aggregate much in excess of the loss of the fruit and vegetables themselves. We submit that the farmers have a case against the city folks in this complaint. The farmer suffers by the loss of products from his fields and orchards which would otherwise be sold just as much as a merchant suffers when he is raided by shop-lifters. One theft is as dishonest and inexcusable as the other. We suggest that any motorist who on his country drives finds himself tempted by luscious apples or boughs drooping with nuts consider what his reaction would be were some one to invade his cellar and help himself to the contents of the apple barrel and the nut sack. We believe that a moment's thought will be enough to send every self-respecting man to the farmer's house to make a straight-forward bargain for what he wants.

Grasshoppers

NINETY THOUSAND DOLLARS for a scientific study of the grasshopper is asked by a bill introduced in congress. A waste of money? Not if properly handled, not if it brings farmers a step nearer to an end of the grasshopper pest that often destroys many times $90,000 worth of crops in a single day. The boll weevil has just destroyed $100,000,000 worth of cotton. Now the European corn borer appears in northern Ohio and threatens to spread west into the great corn belt. Money for war against insect pests is more sensible, times over, than money for war against humans.

Foolish

FOR $1 you can buy five times as much crude rubber as you could in 1913. Being a rubber farmer is a sad life these days. In England, the great rubber kings are urging the owners of rubber plantations to cut their output in two, to boost price and make profits. That is an unsound policy. Under-production in any industry would only further chloroform a world convalescing from the economic losses of war. The rubber market will right itself if given time. Artificial famine is a temporary stimulant but it leaves a hang-over.

Detective

AFTER arresting 10,000 criminals, Detective Frank D. Casassa dies in New York. The limelight centered on him when he arrested "Dago Frank" and "Lefty Louie" in the Rosenbach case. But usually, like most detectives, he had to keep in the background. Casassa was one of the few star detectives in the business. His life was as useful to the public as it must have been thrilling.

For Rent

FAMILIES can double up to save rent, but when the list of empty houses becomes noticeably long, it means that there is a definite movement back to the farm. New York City, for instance, says a report by its Tenement House department, has 982,930 vacant apartments, a figure so big that it is almost unbelievable. The farm is better than the bread line, and some folks are keen enough to see it.

IT ONLY HAPPENS ONCE

By JESSIE DOUGLAS

Louie was drying her hair on the sunny patch of grass behind the high green hedge. It clung to her shoulders, a straggling mass of rusty gold, the tips curling adorably the fuzzy little curls at the back of her neck like the soft down on a yellow chick.

She flung herself back on the warm grass, delighting in the puffy clouds so far above her.

"It's wonderful to be alive—and in love," she thought.

She flushed hotly as though she had spoken aloud. For this was the first time she had even confessed her love to herself. But how could she help it? She had only known Henry Durant two months, but when she had first met him something in him had seemed to light a spark in her. She had tossed him, at first with a sidelong glance that said, "Come, bither!" more plainly than any words.

Then they had dropped into a serious friendship for several weeks. And last night—last night—she touched her hand with his and stopping quickly had pressed his lips against it.

Louie turned over the pink paper and studied it; she could almost see the very spot where his lips had lain. She laid it to her own mouth.

"It's awful the way he's going on. Just flitting his head off and the girl takes it seriously," a laughing voice across the hedge floated to Louie Gordon's ears.

"Louie smiles a little. Henry wasn't kind; he was so earnest, so different."

"And that little Gordon girl hasn't the slightest idea. I think she ought to be told. I think she ought to put a stop to it."

Louie's eyes widened. Her heart began to thud very loudly. Quite as though it wanted to escape its narrow confines. It must be a mistake.

"And yet Henry's a nice boy—the voice across the hedge drifted away. But they had left behind them after destruction. Louie huddled up on the grass, her round face suddenly white, her candid blue eyes full of panic and wild misery of some woman who would think.

"I don't believe it, Louie told her next day. 'I'll ask him, tell him what I heard.'"

Then the realization came to her that this was not the thing she could ask a man. It is the girl's place to wait—not to go seeking—and if it was true that he had only been playing while she had given him her whole heart she would just have to endure it.

How thin the sunlight looked! How cold the blue came of sky that stretched above her! And that queer heaviness, where her heart had been, Louie stood up suddenly and shook her head with an angry list. The amber colored mass of hair that she had reached the porch and saw that Millie Andrews was waiting for her. She knew that there might be the solution.

"I just dropped in a minute," Millie explained as she fluttered to a seat on the hedge above her. And that queer heaviness, where her heart had been, Louie stood up suddenly and shook her head with an angry list. The amber colored mass of hair that she had reached the porch and saw that Millie Andrews was waiting for her. She knew that there might be the solution.

There was silence on the shadowy porch for a moment. Then Millie looked up, her cheeks flaming.

"You want the truth," she flamed. "I think Henry is a dangerous man," she had picked up her parasol and was down the steps before Louie quite realized it.

All through that long drowsy summer afternoon Louie bent over the family dining. There was a reason when he had walked two blocks, and why her brother eyed his lavender socks with something like horror.

But if her needle did queer things, Louie thought that afternoon what it is to feel a dull ache in a husband's heart, while she smiled to her brother and talked commonplace to lift her eyes to the maple shaded street and find that she saw it through a mist of tears.

But when the afternoon had dragged by and Louie was setting the table for the early supper, her brother, teasing, called in through the screen door: "Henry won't be around tonight, sis, he's out with a girl."

Louie smiled back gayly, but when his tall figure had moved away, she stood very still holding a glass and twisting it about her cold fingers.

"I'll just have to forget him," she told herself.

By way of forgetting him she remembered the first time she had met him. The gleam of humor in his brown eyes, the way his hair was brushed back satiny smooth and the something in his voice that could make her heart beat so fast.

He had come across the lawn under the trees strung with Japanese lanterns and had been a church member and he had said, "I've been trying to meet you all evening."

From the very first she had felt as though she had known him always.

She did not let her eyes wander. "You aren't eating anything, are you, Louie?" her mother said as they sat, crowded by table.

Louie tried to swallow a piece of bread, but it had the taste of sawdust and tears. The first moment that she found herself alone she crept out to the porch and sat on the lowest step, secure in the shadows, watching a crescent of moon glimmer through the trees. A delicate sweetness found the rose of Sharon bushes wrapped her round, her throat ached with the sob she was holding back, and she tried to tell herself that it didn't matter that she would forget it—some time.

Perhaps it was the sight of two lovers striding past the gate, or just the familiar bill of a thread of music that drifted to her on the summer air that was too much. She buried her head in her girlish arms, and wept as though her heart would break.

Some one coming up the path stopped suddenly when he saw the huddled little figure.

"Louie, Oh, Louie, what's the matter?"

But there was no answer from the bowed head.

What Is Due Us

BY DR. WILLIAM E. BARTON

Mr. Harriman was right in saying that he is richest who owes the most, the European nations are very rich.

Great Britain owes the United States four billions of dollars. France owes us three and one-third billions. Italy owes us one and two-thirds billions. Altogether the nations of Europe owe us ten billions of dollars.

They do not have the money. They do not know where to get the money. They can never pay their debts in money. And with the present balance of trade against them and the cost of exchange it is difficult to see how they can pay us in commodities.

We have had several broad hints to the effect that it would be a very good thing for America to give these sums to the nations of Europe. We are reminded that we were making money during the first three years when they were fighting. They would hardly feel like begging that amount of money from us, but if we were disposed to give it, we should probably have no great difficulty in persuading Europe to accept it.

Would Europe appreciate the gift? The answer is not altogether certain.

She would thank us very heartily, and we should hear of our generosity in a good many banquets. But it is not certain that Europe would not say in her heart, "America has given us only what she could well afford and less than we deserve."

It is not likely that congress will vote to cancel these huge debts. How then are they to be paid?

I do not think that anybody knows how they are to be paid.

One thing is true, so long as they remain unpaid and unforfeited, there will be one more reminder that war is expensive. The world has had several such reminders, but apparently one more will do no harm.

LIGHTING DECISION FAVORS THREE CITIES

A decision in favor of the cities of Menomonee, Eau Claire, and Chippewa Falls in their suit against the railroad commission and Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company was filed in circuit court at Madison by Judge E. Ray Stevens. The findings of fact declare that the order of the commission of Oct. 9, 1920, establishing the electrical rates for communities served by the defendant, is unjust and unreasonable, and imposes on the plaintiff a wholly excessive part of operating expenses and fixed charges of the hydro-electrical development at Wisconsin. The order of the commission is set aside by the court and the controversy is recommended to the commission for further proceedings.

SALVATION ARMY TO HAVE BIG SALE

The Salvation Army will conduct a sale at their hall, 314 South Fourth street, Saturday, sale commencing at 8:30 a. m. and continuing all day. At 7:30 p. m. a big auction sale of all goods left.

Through the kindness of the La Crosse merchants and our friends on the farms, we are able to put up a big assortment of merchandise and farm produce.

The proceeds go for the benefit of the local corps.

Watch the press for a later itemized list of merchandise and produce to be offered at the sale.

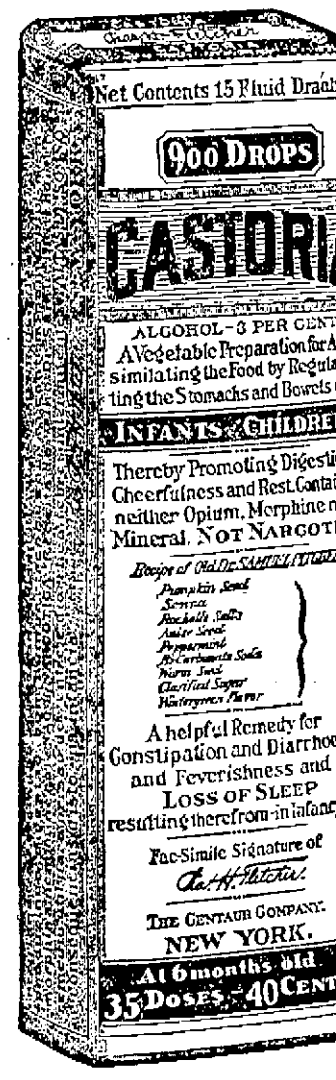

In the Congo the natives eat only one meal a day.

Shame on Them.

PERHAPS there are a few mothers who do not know the virtues of Fletcher's Castoria. Perhaps there are a few who know that there are imitations on the market, and knowing this demand Fletcher's. It is to ALL motherhood, then, that we call attention to the numerous imitations and counterfeits that may be set before them.

It is to all motherhood everywhere that we ring out the warning to beware of the "Just-as-good." For over thirty years Fletcher's Castoria has been an aid in the upbuilding of our population; an aid in the saving of babies.

And yet there are those who would ask you to try something new. Try this. Try that. Even try the same remedy for the tiny, scarcely breathing, babe that you in all your robust womanhood would use for yourself. Shame on them.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR U. S. RESERVE ARMY ORGANIZATION

Wisconsin to be Included in Ninety-first Division of the Sixth Army Corps

WASHINGTON. — General staff plans to carry out organization of the army reserves provided for under existing statutes were made public Tuesday by Acting Secretary Wainwright and show that provision has been made for the creation of 27 divisions aggregating about four and a quarter million men in which will be included all of the old war-time national army divisions, the numbers and insignia of which will thus be preserved.

Some 500 regular army officers and a number of enlisted men already have been assigned to duty in connection with the project which will be carried out by the corps area commanders and provide a definite place in a national defense system for all reserve officers and trained enlisted personnel whether veterans of the war or graduates of post war training camps.

The organization of the reserve follows the lines of the present regular army corps areas.

Three corps made up of divisions from eastern states cover the first army area and these reserve divisions with the three regular divisions and the six national guard divisions in the same territory would constitute the first army in the event of war.

The second army area contains all locations including:

Fourth corps (Atlanta) 81st division; 82nd division; 87th division, all from southern and southeastern states.

Fifth corps (Indianapolis) 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Sixth corps (Chicago) 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, Wisconsin.

Third army area includes Seventh corps (Omaha) 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, Minnesota and Iowa; 89th, 90th, 91st, 92nd, 93rd, 94th, 95th, 96th, 97th, 98th, 99th, North Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas, 102nd, Arkansas and Missouri.

Eighth corps, comprises Southwestern states.

Ninth corps (San Francisco), Western states.

JUDGE DENIES MOVE TO DISMISS CHARGE AGAINST ARBUCKLE

Prosecution Winds Up Case and Defense Begins Presentation of Testimony

STATE CLOSES WITHOUT CALLING MRS. DELMONT TO THE STAND

Defense Demands Complainant be Produced

SAN FRANCISCO.—The defense in the preliminary hearing of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, charged with the murder of Miss Virginia Rappe, announced its effort to clear the motion picture comedian when Police Judge Lazarus' court resumed late Wednesday.

The prosecution completed its presentation of evidence Tuesday without having called Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont, complaining witness, and this move on the part of District Attorney Brady was widely unexpected by Frank E. Dominguez, chief of the Arbuckle defense staff.

When Assistant District Attorney Golden told the court that Mrs. Delmont would not be summoned, Dominguez was on his feet instantly and demanded that she be produced.

"In the interests of truth and justice we demand it," he told the court. "We demand that Mrs. Delmont be put on the stand that we may cross-examine her. She is the person who swore to the warrant. She is the chief witness. I never heard of a case in which the complainant was not produced."

Denies Motion to Drop Case

Judge Lazarus told the prosecution it was not necessary to have Mrs. Delmont testify, but warned that they were risking the chance of having the complaint dismissed. Later he denied a motion of the defense to question the charge against the screen comedian, and then court adjourned until late this afternoon.

Should Judge Lazarus decide that the comedian be freed of the murder charge he will face charges of manslaughter brought by the San Francisco county grand jury in connection with Miss Rappe's death.

May be Tried on Dry Charge

There is also a possibility that Arbuckle will be prosecuted for alleged violation of the prohibition law. E. F. Mitchell, federal prohibition director, is conducting an investigation, and on its completion, according to Robert H. McCormack, assistant to the United States attorney general, the liquor angle of the case will be brought before a federal grand jury.

McCormack in a statement Tuesday night declared that he was withholding grand jury action pending a full report from Mitchell. He has intimated that in the course of his investigation of the liquor supply alleged to have been consumed at the Arbuckle party he has uncovered a whiskey smuggling traffic between Mexico and San Francisco and Los Angeles.

WINDOW DISPLAYS DEPICT ACTIVITIES OF THE Y. W. C. A.

Exhibits in Downtown Store Windows Feature Association's Membership Week

ENROLLMENTS BEING MADE FOR GYMNASIUM CLASSES

Program for Year's Work to be Announced Soon

FEATURING Membership Week of the Y. W. C. A., two downtown store window displays this week are attracting considerable attention, for in them are depicted the many and varied activities conducted by the association for the girls of the city.

The exhibits, which are shown at the Doeringer and Barron stores, include groups of dolls dressed in costumes which portray the numerous groups of girls with which the association comes in contact in the course of its activities.

Here are found the cafeteria girl in white, busy with pots and pans, providing a wholesome appetizing lunch for scores of girls who visit the association rooms every noon; the dancing girl, gay in tarlatan frock; the dignified and efficient business girl; the foreign-born girl; the industrial girl in the most fetching costume of overalls and cap; gym girls, both senior and junior; Junior Girl Reserve, and last but not least, the swimming girl who seems the censor's taboo of the one-piece bathing suit.

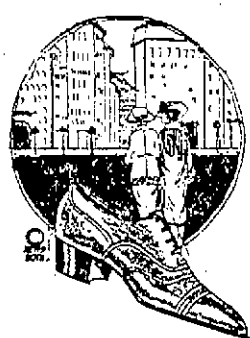

Enroll For Gym Classes
The full program for the year's gymnasium work will be announced shortly, and enrollments for the various classes are being made this week in connection with the membership drive. Miss Edna M. Harrier will direct gymnasium and basketball classes, while dancing will be under the supervision of Miss Catherine Linse. Information regarding classes may be obtained at the association office.

Organize G. R.'s
Among the younger girls with whom the association comes in touch are the "Girl Reserves," a group of ten-year girls, banded together in an organization sponsored by the Y. W. C. A. national in character and having for its slogan the purpose to "face life squarely and to find and give the best." This department is under the direction of Miss Irena G. Swindell, girls' work secretary, and corps have been organized in all the schools of the city.

The junior gym girls are another factor in the association life. These include girls from the wee lassies of five and six years, up to girls of high school age. Gymnasium work is taught by Miss Harrier, and the junior dancing by Miss Mae Torrance.

Gymnasium work is also given at the institution for girls of the vocational school, and clubs are to be organized.

COUNTY BOARD PLANS CHECK ON EXPENSES; CONSERVATISM RULES

prosperity was just around the corner, that the gold reserve was greater today than it ever had been and that the county should keep all its workers employed. These remarks inspired Mr. Keppel to ask Mr. Olson if there is so much gold in sight why the railroads were laying off men and also how much of that gold reserve belonged to Mr. Olson.

Nuttman Defends Boards

Adolph Nuttman did not like the idea of having the town boards requested to revise expenditures. "The town boards at their elections last spring were wise to what was ahead of them, and made their appropriations accordingly. It would mean special elections in most cases if these expenditures are to be revised."

Supervisor Moore also made a plea for the continuance of road work and maintenance of work already done. "It might be a little burdensome on the taxpayers," he said, but it would come out all right in the end. "We are the best country in the world today," said Mr. Moore.

Orrin Fletcher said there were large sums of unexpended money in the various town treasuries and asked why additional levies should be made when money is already raised and on hand. "Mr. Keppel's resolution is merely a checking up on these funds," said Mr. Fletcher, "let's find where we stand."

After everybody had apparently thoroughly understood the intention of the Keppel resolution, it was unanimously passed. Then Mr. Keppel introduced another resolution, to clear away all possible doubt of his attitude, that the highway work be continued until the end of the season. This also passed.

The resolution from the administration, building and grounds and purchasing committees of the city council, asking that the county appropriate $10,000 to pay for shifting of Doder and Hammond chutes to increase the flow of water in Black river, thus carrying away the sewage from Onalaska to the Mississippi raised another rumpus. A motion was made to table the resolution and was passed. Supervisor Schneiderberger, a few minutes later, asked that the board reconsider its vote to table the resolution, saying that he did not think all the members clearly understood what the resolution meant. The board then voted to reconsider the motion to table the resolution and it was carried. The matter will now be brought up at the November meeting of the board.

CITY COUNCIL IN LOS ANGELES VOTES TO REGULATE MOVIES

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Fight for cleaner motion pictures, marked by threats that some motion picture companies might leave Southern California if hampered, reached a climax when the city council voted Tuesday to instruct the city attorney to prepare an ordinance creating a motion picture commission to regulate exhibition of films here.

Opponents of censorship protested that such action "would sound the death knell of the motion picture industry here." Proponents asserted it was necessary that the "menace to American childhood" in uncensored pictures be removed.

WISCONSIN SQUAD IS TRIMMED DOWN FOR OPENING TILT

Squad Singled Down to Twenty-four Men Wearing Cardinal Jersey at Camp Randall

MADISON, Wis.—The trimming down process has started on the Wisconsin football team, in preparation for the first game of the year Saturday against Lawrence College of Appleton. Coach J. R. Richards has named 24 men out of the squad of 70 which will serve as the varsity.

The men who have received the cardinal jerseys awarded regularly are: Left Guards, Roman Trimm, Robert R. Palmer; right guards, Gordon R. Nelson, Hans Gude; left tackles, James L. Brader, Arthur Platten; right tackles, R. L. Hoffeldt, Edward G. Scherneck; right ends, Gustav K. Tobell, Merrill E. Taff; left ends, E. A. Carlson, Daniel Horne; quarterbacks, E. H. Gibson, Rollie Williams, Ralph Gill; left halfbacks, George Carlson, T. S. Gould; right halfbacks, J. P. Woods, Alvin C. Elliott, William K. Collins; fullbacks, Captain Ray Smith, Hubert Perria, Everett H. Crozier.

This squad will be added to from due to time as men on the All American teams prove themselves of varsity caliber according to Coach Richards.

Regulars Improve

The work of the regulars has improved steadily during the past week until the team is in good running order, and in shape to meet the more hardened college eleven next Saturday. A large score is looked for here, as Carlson at left end is out for the week with an injury to his leg, with Perria, substitute full-back, also on the sick list. These are the only two injuries of the year that have proved at all serious.

Coach Richards is working Gibson and Williams regularly at quarterback, back with Gill in reserve. Although he has never played in the position before this year, Williams makes a good showing in the pilot position and may be shifted from his regular place at half to quarterback.

OPPORTUNITY TO JUDGE COMPARATIVE STRENGTH OF BIG TENS SATURDAY

CHICAGO, Ill.—With nine western conference football eleven in action next Saturday the first chance will be given to judge comparative strength with any degree of accuracy.

The University of Chicago and Northwestern university teams stage the first game of the year between "Big Ten" eleven and Chicago is given the edge owing to Northwestern's poor showing last Saturday in the opener with Heloit.

Michigan will give an exhibition of its wares when the team faces Mount Union at Ann Arbor and Wisconsin's strength can be judged from the game with its early season opponent Lawrence of Appleton. Purdue will meet Wabash at Lafayette, while Iowa will face Knox at Iowa City.

Minnesota, touted as a conference dark horse, opens the season with North Dakota at Minneapolis and Ohio State, 1920 conference champion, swings into action with Ohio Wesleyan as opponent.

Indiana will hit the line for the second time this year when the team faces Kalamazoo. This will be Indiana's last game before facing Harvard at Cambridge, October 8.

Notre Dame, which, it is said, has another formidable aggregation this season, faces De Pauw at South Bend. Illinois will not open its season until October 8 when South Dakota will be its opponent at Urbana.

PITTSBURGH DOWNS PHILLIES EASILY

PITTSBURGH—Pittsburg on Tuesday closed the local season with a 9 to 6 victory over Philadelphia in a free hitting contest. Glazner was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning, and Carlson held the visitors safe except in the ninth, when two hits, an error and a sacrifice fly scored two runs. The locals bunched hits off Winters in three innings, scoring three runs each time. Score: Pittsburgh 9, Philadelphia 6.

Batteries: Winters and Reilley; Glazner, Carlson and Goeh.

Braves 8, 0; Dodgers 5, 8.

BOSTON—Boston and Brooklyn divided the spoils on Tuesday, the former winning the first game by 8 to 5 and the visitors taking the second, 8 to 0. Scores:

Brooklyn 000 000 050—5
 Boston 000 120 418—8
 Batteries: Grimes and Miller; Fillingim and Gowdy.

Second Game—
 Brooklyn 010 002 100—8
 Boston 000 000 000—0
 Batteries: Mitchell and Taylor; Braxton, Morgan and O'Neill.

SHOCKER BLANKS NEW YORK, 2 TO 0

NEW YORK—The New York Americans were given a setback in their pennant fight on Tuesday when Shocker, a former New York hurler, shut them out. St. Louis won by a score of 2 to 0. It was the fifth game Shocker has won from the Yankees this season.

He held them to five hits. Until the ninth no Yankee batter reached second but Shocker had a scare in the ninth when Schang and Lockman singled.

Both were intentionally passed but Menzel was retired on a fly to Jacobson. Harper pitched well after the first when Sizer's home run followed Blum's triple and accounted for St. Louis' two runs. Score:

St. Louis 000 000 000—2
 New York 000 000 000—0
 Batteries: Shocker and Collins; Harper and Schang.

Red Sox, 8-5; Macks, 1-0.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Bush held Philadelphia to four scattered hits and enabled Boston to break even in a double header by winning the second game, 8 to 1. In the opening contest Rommel outpitched Karp and gave the Athletics a 9 to 5 victory. In the

AT THE THEATERS TODAY
Rivoli—"The Affairs of Anatol," De Mille production with all-star cast. With Wanda Hawley, two acts of vaudeville, comedy, "Spilling the Beans."
Hibernia—Minnie Burke and her husband, "The Passing Inquisition," big cast including Anna Q. Nilsson in the Metro classic, "The Sign of the Cross," and "Puppets of Fate," comedy, "The Dugan Kids," Fox News.
Metropole—Vivian Martin in "The Song of the South," comedy, "Gustard," Last Stand, special attraction, Princess Comedy company in a new skit, "Have a Card."

BIG SMASH SCENE OF "ANATOL," COST $250,000
Securing $250,000 worth of furniture for a single interior setting and then producing a masterpiece of realism, but at a high prohibitive cost. Yet that is what Cecil B. DeMille did in "The Affairs of Anatol," which is now at the Rivoli theater.

The setting in question serves as a background for a part of the story portrayed by the great film stars, Wanda Hawley, Theodore Roberts and other all-star players. It is a unique, luxurious apartment, and Howard Hughes, production manager for Cecil B. DeMille productions, was instructed to spare no expense.

The result was an attractive and designed by Paul Ibbie, furnished with approximately $250,000 worth of furniture. This included a valuable set of Louis XVI chairs, a magnificent carved photograph case of unique design, a grand piano, lamps, mirrors, tables, desk, lounge, bed, and other objects. At the climax of this episode, Wallace Reid was instructed to run amok, smashing everything breakable in the room. The objects were completely and Reid obeyed them to the letter. Not one stick of furniture remained in its original shape when the vandals were completed. Even the small pieces of furniture as beds, one Reid shattered everything in sight with the camera clicking just out of range of his fingers. Mirrors, lamps, chairs, photograph and piano were demolished one by one. As a conclusion to the scene the husky star seized the large, ornate divan and hurled it bodily through the French doors at one end of the set.

LOCAL COMEDY TROUPE
AT THE STRAND TODAY
The Princess Comedy troupe, that scored a hit at the Strand last week, will be featured today and Thursday in a comedy skit, "Have a Card," featuring C. M. Clements as Pat Murphy and assisted by Walter Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Brandon. The sudden, unreasoning frenzy of a mob in the backwaters of Florida is strikingly shown in one of the big scenes in "The Song of the South," starring Vivian Martin, the feature picture on the program. Some of the most remarkable scenery in American film of the Everglades of Florida figures in the picture. In one scene the heroine, a blind girl, gets lost in the alligator-infested swamps.

VIOLA DANA—CASINO
Viola Dana, petite star in Metro pictures, unearthed some greatly treasured family heirlooms for use in one of the scenes of her newest Metro starring production, "Puppets of Fate," at the Casino today and Thursday.
An old patchwork quilt played by Miss Dana's great-great-grandmother in the days before the Revolutionary war, was used as a covering on an old-fashioned four-poster bed. The setting represents the home of the little Italian wait, Sorrentino, and Gabriel, her husband.

FAMOUS MAGAZINE STORY.
NOW IN PICTURES AT THE RIVIERA TODAY, THURSDAY
"Without Limit," the George D. Baker production for S-L Pictures, released by Metro at the Riviera today and Thursday, is the feature picture, an adaptation from the masterpiece of Calvin Johnston which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post recently.

This striking picture, in which Anna Q. Nilsson is the featured player, portrays a girl who marries an utter stranger while drunk and who learns of her mistake while in a mysterious gambling palace. Her husband is soon revealed a coward and forger. Steve Palmer, the gambler, dispenses his philosophy of life; he befriends the girl only to see her cynically suspicious apparently corroborated, as she sinks slowly into the mire. A great wrench lifts her up when she has all but fallen.

The all-star cast includes Anna Q. Nilsson, Robert Frazer, Frank Currier, Kate Blanche, Charles Lane, Robert Schuyler, Thomas W. Ross, and Nellie Anderson. Minnie Burke and her husband, "The Passing Inquisition," are also featured.

U. S. TRADE WITH EUROPE PICKS UP DURING AUGUST

Commerce Between U. S. and South America is Stationary Says Federal Bureau

WASHINGTON—America's trade with Europe revived somewhat during August as compared with July but commerce between the United States and South America remained almost stationary according to figures issued Tuesday by the department of commerce.

Exports to Europe last month totaled $200,000,000 as compared with a valuation of $180,000,000 in July while imports were $50,000,000 as contrasted with $57,000,000 in July. Exports to South America amounted to $14,000,000 in August as compared to $16,000,000 in July but comparison with August 1920 shows a decline of more than two-thirds. Imports from South America were $23,000,000 last month against $20,000,000 in July.

Do you want a good position? Attend the "WBU".

Estel Ketchum July 14, 1921.

Mr. Leigh Toland, La Crosse, Wisconsin. Dear Mr. Toland:—It pleased me very much to receive your letter and circular. It has been my intention for the past two weeks, to write you, but if there was ever a busy person, I am one. I think I have never worked so hard in my life as I did the first week I was here. It is true, I did not seem to accomplish very much, but I "labored" just the same. The milling business is so foreign to anything I have ever done that it is all "Greek" to me, but I am gradually getting an insight, and I am happy to say that I can see myself improving every day.

I am glad to hear that the outlook for the "WBU" for the coming year is very promising. I surely wish you all that is good in the way of success. Thanks very much for your kind offer of help. I shall not forget it.

I received a long letter from Miss Schwartz shortly after she arrived in New York, and she was deeply in love with the city and her position to I know she is having a fine time and making rapid progress. I regret that I could not have gone with her, but perhaps my time will come later on.

The people here at the Bay State are lovely to me, and if I do not make a success of it, because it is not in me. They certainly do all they can to help me.

It will always be a pleasure to me to hear from you and the "WBU", and you will hear from me from time to time about my progress.

Sincerely yours, ESTEL KETCHUM.
